Our Expert : Mixed audio theory : "The purpose of this area is to compensate the loudness differences. " Features : For an easier and better understanding of this program, let me show you a live example. This is an example of a piano and a drum recording on 4 channel. I want to master them with our program. But this mix is very dry and boring to listen, also it has so much bass and it's very loud. First step is to make adjustments in the user interface. Here is the settings that I choose : Input channels (up to 6) DPG 6 6 Quality 128 160 Output channels (up to 6) DDP 6 6 Dynamic range compression (DRC) 128 160 Fast Gain: Small Volume Variation (FGV) (not recommended) Small Volume Variation (SVV) 130 138 Fast Volume Reduction (not recommended) Volume Reduction 151 151 The Main purpose is to remove the bass from the mix. When you adjust your inputs, you can find the bands (lower and upper), and then you can move the bands using the slider bars. If you want to over boost the band, just move the slider all the way to the left. If you want to reduce, you can move the slider all the way to the right. Like this you can make the bass softer or louder. The settings you choose will apply for all output channels that you select. If b7e8fd5c8
