A light fantasy RPG, with many components designed to keep it fresh and fun. Mortal Glory is a 6th-person fantasy roleplaying game, using a system called "RPG Maker". This means you will be programming things like levels and cutscenes, but mostly you will be taking part in light combat, running around, exploring, and making items. This game was developed over the course of a single 12 month game jam. The basic premise is a woman named Alex who walks in a forest one day, and wakes up on a mountaintop, without any memory. She discovers that the world is ravaged by magical creature called the Direwolves, that lay waste to the lands, and it is only by divine intervention that she is saved. She then forms a party of misfits, a champion of the Hunt, and goes hunting down whatever Direwolf was responsible for her troubles. A big part of the gameplay is making new items and learning new spells. When you encounter a Direwolf, you will be able to cast a spell that kills it in one shot. Because spells and items will be a part of the game, having a party of misfits and a champion of the hunt is a necessity, because you will need to hunt them down and learn their skills to control them. Also because you will be playing the role of a party of misfits, you will be trying to learn all of the new items and spells you come across. Another big part of the game is level design, and if you are into rpg games, you will be aware of the likes of the World of Warcraft and Skyrim, in which case you know that there is a lot of world exploration in almost every level. Features: > 6th-person role-playing game with light combat > Movement is jump and dash, and there are plenty of places to explore > Many skills and items > 20 different enemies including Direwolves > Divine Intervention: There are direwolves in the world. It is up to you to bring them back to their place It was really hard deciding how to describe the game, but it is at least a very hard game to explain. You can watch the stream that we recorded of the game for a more accurate look, and we ask that you give us some slack as we recorded the game on a Friday night. While the game jam was great, recording and editing the game took a lot of work. There are so many features

Debris Interactive, a game developer based in France, is well known for its first game, Rats: Edge of Reality. Then it was the turn of the Nosgoth in summer of 2013, but it was the beginning of the world of the virtual reality. The Nosgoth is an action adventure shooter game in which you can enter a sinister world on a journey. DEBT is a first-person psychological horror game inspired by the darkness. It's a twist on the survival horror genre with its own sense of fear. You play as Owen, an angry man who does not take risks in his life. A woman named Alina used to play a game with him that had a certain appeal for him. One day, she disappeared into the warehouse where she worked without saying goodbye. A few days later, he found out that she had committed suicide. A month later, he received an email from Alina with information about a game that he couldn't understand, at first glance. The game is about finding four questions before escaping from the planet where an enormous colony of rats have been brought to life. To finish this game, he must find these questions. Wandering around the nearby areas, he will find a lot of clues. The message is often blurred or in some places, the communication is with marks to represent the letters. In addition to solving these puzzles, he will also need to find out what happened to Alina, the woman who introduced him to this strange game. The creators left some clues to find the answers and get to the bottom of this event. The whole game is set in a new virtual reality universe. Each level is set with a different theme. The game is enriched with atmospheric and disturbing sounds. DEBT takes place in the middle of the mine, this is where the action will happen. The game will be offered with two different gameplay options, you will get to play with the first-person perspective if you want to be able to see what is happening to you. DEBT experience will focus on exploration and mystery, you will have to face your fears and enemies to save yourself and get the answers to the questions.

-Game Mechanics-

-Forced Exploration: The player is in the middle of the action. You have to choose if you want to leave the noise of the environment or to fight to see what is happening

-Natural Survival: In a world where you have to survive, you cannot fight on your own. You must find the means to solve these puzzles
