What's new in Clash: Mutants Vs Pirates - Mutant Pack:

Lone Vessel (aka Violet) is the second feature film from Australian independent cinema production company Lola's Island, formed by director Mark Atkins and fellow Australian actors Lucy Gutteridge and Sam Worthington. The film was released on 15 June 2009 in Australia. Plot The film takes place in a future where 10 years have passed and where a massive asteroid has fallen and tilted the world's axis, causing an 11.7 magnitude tidal wave that wiped out 80% of the world's population. Most of the US East Coast, the UK and China was destroyed along with numerous major cities of Southern Europe. Cities have been rebuilt yet interstellar travel remains a difficult industry. The film follows the story of Professor William (Ewan McGregor), an academic studying the effects of the asteroid and conducting experiments to learn more about physics. He has also seemingly lost his younger son, Aaron, who is then saved by an astronaut aboard an enormous spaceship travelling back to the US. Isabella Forsythe (Lucy Gutteridge), a genetic biologist who manages the research crew aboard the spaceship, assigns a new crew member to assist Professor William. Unfortunately, her fresh crew member is Chris Frances-Williams (Sam Worthington), a suave and charming aviation pilot who immediately wins over most of the crew except for William. William's boyish friend, Gary (Sam Johnson) is also on the ship. Chris is also romantically interested in Isabella, although he is aware that she is engaged to her friend, Sammy (Ben Linford). On the crew's first mission to the asteroid belt, the ship runs into difficulties and Chris is forced to crash land the craft. As the crew realise that they will soon collide with the asteroid, Chris saves her life by shielding her from the risk of the massive fall at the end of the ship. Meanwhile, Isabella, while adjusting to her new position onboard the ship, and separated from Chris, is compelled to reunite with her estranged father, Charlie (Don Hany), the ship's doctor. Chris is too proud to admit his feelings for the woman, but they grow closer through their work. Chris and Isabella's relationship is further complicated by Chris' unhealthy obsessions with Chris' late mother, Alex (Francesca Daetoo), whom he mourns for the loss of his father, who died in a car accident as a teenager. Ashley (Emily Browning), the ship's intellectual and introverted engineer who seems to pay close
