The sequel of "The Tower of Patriot". More than a million people have already engaged in the Battle, they fought well, and the heroes fought well. In the 19th century, the Qing Dynasty established the strategic military port of Qingdao to defend the northern coastline, and the fortified walls that protect the city were completed in the early 20th century. However, their military strength was not enough to repel the invasion of the Western invaders. The provincial capital was besieged in 1905 and forced to capitulate. Since then, the city has been under Japanese occupation. In 1940, Qingdao, the designated capital of the Japanese-held province of Shandong, was the largest deep-water port in the world, but was struck by a storm on the night of September 27, 1941. The entire population of Qingdao was evacuated, and the city was placed under martial law. During the war, American and German planes destroyed the main shipyards in the harbor in an attempt to interrupt the war supplies to Japan. Qingdao continues to be the largest port city in Shandong Province, and a well-developed port. In 1949, the two countries agreed to bury the past and establish diplomatic ties with each other. Foreigners gradually came to Qingdao, and a large number of foreigners arrived in Qingdao in 1978, after the reform of the Hong Kong Autonomous Region and the reunification of the two China. In 1992, the Qingdao Foreign Trade Exhibition was first held in Qingdao, and in 1997, Qingdao became the hometown of the new Chinese navy. In 1993, he completed his military training and published "The Chinese People's Liberation Army, the Long March, and the Secret of the Army" and "The Chinese People's Liberation Army and First War". In 1996, after the Reform and Opening Up, he was sent to Central America to attend the 30th Conference of the Americas (C.O.A.), Beijing met the leaders of the United States, Canada, and other countries. In 1997, he wrote "The Reminiscences of China: Towards the Truth and Remembrance of the 20th Century". In 1998, he began his visit to the United States and met with Edgar Menezes Jr., President of Brazil, President Clinton, and other important leaders of America. In 2000, he participated in the 30th C.O.A.,
