A: MapInfo Professional is a pretty powerful GIS, and only a little over $500 (free for academics). That said, you're asking about MapInfo in particular, not GIS in general. For instance, you said you don't like the interface, but didn't explain why. It's free It's easy to learn. A quick Google search will show you how to get started quickly (and learn the basics in just a few minutes). The interface is still not the best, but is an improvement on earlier versions. The latest release has an interface very similar to ArcGIS. And, if you want the ability to view and create maps inside of a web browser, there's a free version of MapInfo called Web Map Service (WMS). I'm guessing you can use this to display some of the points you need. Here's more info on it.
