* **Photoshop Elements***. This version of Photoshop is designed for those who want a simpler experience than the full-featured Photoshop but are interested in editing an image. One thing to note about Photoshop is that it's not really a photo editor. Although that's probably not the exact definition of a photo editor, it's something that you or your technical reviewer may want to keep in mind when considering whether Photoshop is a good fit for your project. It's a graphic design program. If your technical reviewer is familiar with Adobe's other products, he or she will know where Photoshop fits into the Adobe portfolio. But if that reviewer does not have a background in graphic design, you should explain the differences to them.

Milwaukee Bucks' O.J. Mayo seeks franchise-record five straight 50-40 games Milwaukee Bucks shooting guard O.J. Mayo's breakout season continues. AP Photo/Michael Conroy That's far from the only thing that has been going right for O.J. Mayo. Mayo entered the 2013-14 season with the label of a 3-and-D floor general. Nobody knew what to expect from the seventh pick in the 2012 draft, and a limited sample size did not do the Bucks much good. But since Thanksgiving, Mayo has been one of the most efficient players in the league, and he has made enough of an impact as a member of the Bucks that it would be a surprise if the team did not start him in the All-Star Game. Mayo has been a more-than-capable reserve on a team that otherwise lacks star power, and he has made it clear that he intends to be the starting shooting guard of the future. Even this season, with Monta Ellis and Larry Sanders occupying the starting spots, Mayo is playing more minutes than he had in the previous two seasons with the Denver Nuggets. Mayo already set the Bucks' rookie season scoring record last season, but as his second year wears on, he is fighting for more personal accomplishments. The closest he has come so far is the 25 40-point games he has already compiled. Some of those have come in blowout victories, but it is nice to know that he can get the job done even when the opponent is not attempting to foul. Mayo has scored in double digits in six consecutive games, and he has averaged almost exactly 9.7 points per game during that streak. He has done so, in part, by playing as though he were shooting over 50% from the floor. He is shooting almost 56% since Dec. 11. He has really put it together the last month, in part because he has done a much better job of making his free throws, which has led to more open shots for himself and his teammates. Mayo is also doing a better job of making the most out of his touches. The main culprit here is his defense, but he has also improved by making more plays during the course of a game. Mayo has the luxury of shooting so well, and he has to produce on both ends to do that. He has gotten more than that so far, and

US election 2016: results from your views Updated This week, Western Australia is holding a series of special Senate byelections. The votes will be used to fill the casual vacancy created when Senator Chris Back was sacked for a second time last year. The Senate is a place where independents can have a large impact and the WA Senate election is very likely to do just that. Following the 2011 election, the Liberals and Labor went into coalition to form a Government and the balance of power in the Senate was held by the Greens. This government has now broken down in the lower house and both parties have gone into pre-election honeymoon periods. The Government will survive until the next election but will be fractious with an almost-certain two year battle looming for the balance of power. WA will be a bellwether in that fight. An election in WA in a three seat (or possibly four seat) margin is one which is critical to the future of the Government. The 2013 WA election was a nail-biting result. In 2013 the Opposition was holding the seats of Fisher and Chisholm and both were to be fought as a two way fight between Labor and the Liberals. At the start of the year the Government was ahead of the Opposition but the March election saw the Coalition hold the seats of Fisher and Chisholm, the Liberals have dropped out of first place in WA. Further, for the first time since Federation, Labor now holds the balance of power in the Senate. It is a result that could well see WA shift from being a Liberal stronghold to being a Labor stronghold. And with this as a backdrop, it is an election we should all be following closely. 1. When and how is the WA Senate election? The WA election takes place on Saturday, October 1. All that is known about this year's election is that it takes place on the Saturday October 1. The all important question is what seats are up for grabs, the answer to that question is still very much an unknown. In 2013, WA was a two way fight between Labor and Liberal. In that election, Labor lost Fisher and Chisholm leaving the Government vulnerable in the Senate. The 2013 election was a close result. The Government was ahead at the start of the election but the March 2013 election saw a shift back in favour
