I've heard recent stories of some Christians in jail putting food in a window so their families can send it to them. There's a related question from a few years ago: How does Christianity view prisoners?. In the question I linked, the Christian's view was that since Jesus suffered in a garden, he was using the same soil (with exceptions such as human defilement) that his followers would use, so it would be wrong for a convict to inflict injury upon their garden, that is, their body and mind, by giving it food that they would know was tainted (although not conscientiously poisoned). Is this logic (precisely) sound? Is this principle applicable to all jails? Update: The question is whether the following logic is sound: If Jesus (the human embodiment of God)

===== QuickCrypt is a lightweight and easy to use application designed to provide you with a simple method for mounting and unmounting TrueCrypt container files. The application features a simple and clean interface, comprising only two buttons and the configuration section. With QuickCrypt, you can load a TrueCrypt image easy and fast. As long as there is no ETA on the vbulletin updates, the first ETA on the updates is the most accurate date/time for the updates to occur. One of the best ways to time-stamp a post from across the world is by using the GMT/UTC system. So, when you time-stamp a post, don't simply rely on your computer's clock to give you the most accurate time. The GMT / UTC system gives you the most accurate time zone. There is also the option of changing settings. The more options you have, the more choices you have. When configuring, you will want to choose something that will be familiar to you, and fit your needs. Some of you may already know, Tom Zitnick and Chris Mancini are currently working on a project called Flutterfist and if you don't, you can read more about the it in the hyperlinks below. Mancini and Zitnick are both founding members of The International Order of Samurais in the 26th century and they are both running around our galaxy. Together, they have come together to release updates for the purpose of painting and writing fantasy world experiences. If you are a fan of The International Order of Samurais in the 26th century or you just want to see if you can get in on the action, follow the hyperlinks below to check out the updates. As Zitnick and Mancini say, it's just amazing when two worlds collide! We will release updates for Tom Zitnick and Chris Mancini, and this project is a great way to experience their stories, both the art and the writing, in its earliest development stage. The updates will include: Little Rock's new mayor, alderman say they'll work with police to create plan for future riots over missing Black man Little Rock Mayor Frank Scott Jr. and three aldermen at a news conference on Thursday said they will work with the police department to develop a plan to deal with future riots stemming from the recent disappearance of a black man. The police department has a conversation with the
