A: The path you chose is not going to get you to Rhino4 SR9. You need to get the source codes for Rhino4 SR9 and compile it yourself. If you're in the same situation as I am, and want to get the source codes for Rhino4 SR9 for Windows, I would suggest you the following two methods: 1. Get the Source Codes for Rhino4 SR9 from SourceForge.net 2. Get the source codes for Rhino4 SR9, and build it yourself (which you will need to do) I have been using Rhino4 SR9 for some time now and it works pretty good. 1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a tire operating pressure monitoring device. 2. Description of the Related Art In the related art, Japanese Unexamined Patent Application Publication No. 2006-190632 discloses a tire operating pressure monitoring device including a rotor formed from a piezoelectric ceramic plate, and an excitation circuit that drives a rotation member formed from a permanent magnet. The rotor is formed in a cylindrical shape from the piezoelectric ceramic plate. The rotor rotates together with the rotation member that is fixed to the outer periphery of a tire in contact with the ground. The excitation circuit includes a power supply circuit connected to a battery, a controller that controls the rotational speed of the rotor, and a coupling circuit that enables conduction between the power supply circuit and the rotor. In the above-described tire operating pressure monitoring device, when the body of the rotor is continuously damaged or broken, the rotor stops rotation in response to a reduction in an induced voltage generated in the rotor due to the rotation of the rotation member. The damaged or broken rotor can be detected from the reduction in the induced voltage, which enables the deterioration of the tire to be detected in a noncontact manner. However, in the above-described tire operating pressure monitoring device, when the rotor is damaged or broken, the rotation member and the rotor stop while being 0c13bf012
