UnBlocka Turbo+

UnBlocka Turbo+ is a laptop virus protection program that automatically configures your internet usage for the most favorable conditions for your Internet connection. Tuning technology determines which applications to optimize for your connection and which security options to optimize for your security. Tuning works by analyzing your internet usage and then automatically redirects and configures your browser and P2P network settings for the best possible performance. Tuning is an individual process for every computer. Optimizing the internet connection on your computer is easy and only takes a few minutes. The primary reason most computers have low, or even no, internet performance is due to the way they are configured by the computer manufacturer. Some computers are configured with no VPN or security and others set on a heavily restricted or no software environment. Most computers allow for a real-time tuning experience when used with online banking and P2P file sharing software but do not perform as well with internet browsers or other TCP/IP based protocols. The UnBlocka technology is designed to accommodate the use of that software, or should I say your email program or other applications that use TCP/IP protocols to retrieve information from remote locations on the internet.
