SANDY, UTAH: UTV enthusiasts from around the world are pouring into Sandy, Utah to compete in the 24th Annual UTV Invitational off-road race. This unique event spans three mountain ranges and seven parks. Including public lands in Utah, Idaho, and California. It's a one-of-a-kind adventure that requires the skills and equipment to conquer off-road terrain using bicycles, snowmobiles, dune buggies, and motorcycles. Everything from speed to stealth to camping is in play. This is made possible by the owners and operators of the event, Park City Mountain Resort and a plethora of partner companies and individuals. The UTV Invitational is held in conjunction with Wintermute, a Utah based E-Industries company. Branded each year as the largest off-road motorsports competition in the world, the UTV Invitational is hosted by the same non-profit organization each year. The volunteers that make the event possible are a great motivator to have on your team. From terrain management to logistics to sponsorships, the UTV Invitational has an unparalleled level of passion for the sport. "The UTV Invitational has grown into an incredible event every year for many different reasons. We have the rare opportunity to showcase the UTVs and vehicles we have built ourselves and we have the honor to showcase and educate many off-road enthusiasts about our vehicles and the terrain we serve," says Mike Van Aken, founder and event director of the UTV Invitational. Mike is a mentor and teacher of the UTV Invitational for the last 14 years. It was his experience at the UTV Invitational that helped him launch UTV-USA. If it weren't for the vast amount of support he has experienced, Mike would not have the luxury to continue to develop new vehicles and serve in the off-road community. "With many people working hard each year to make this a great event, we cannot do it without the help of the public that supports us. I would not be where I am today without the support of the landscape architects at Park City Mountain Resort, their wonderful campground, and the public that attends the Invitational each year," says Mike. Each year, UTV-USA is proud to serve as a host and supporter of this incredible event. With their help, the UTV Invitational can continue to thrive and support the sport. "Working with UTV-USA as
