Sonar Kella is a 1974 Bengali film starring Soumitra Chatterjee, Santanu Bagchi, Ajoy Banerjee.Santosh Dutta.The film revolves around a .The neurochemical organization of brain stem auditory nuclei in the quail (Coturnix coturnix japonica). In the quail, there is a conspicuous system of direct connections between the lateral auditory thalamus (LAT) and the inferior colliculus (IC), the cortico-nigral pathway (CN). Besides, there are two prominent structures that receive fibers from the LAT and project to the IC: the medial part of the lateral superior olive (LSO) and the medial part of the lateral nucleus of the ventral division of the medial geniculate body (MGv). The present experiments were designed to determine, first, the origin of the projections to the LAT from the CN and the LSO and, second, the origin of the LAT projections to the MGv. For both experiments, the horseradish peroxidase technique was used. From the CN, labeled fibers pass through the external nucleus of the brachium conjunctivum to the contralateral LSO and MGv. A moderate number of labeled fibers is also present in the central nucleus of the brachium conjunctivum and the lateral part of the dorsal nucleus of the brachium conjunctivum. From the LSO, labeled fibers ascend to the LAT, forming two bands along the lateral edge of the lateral nucleus of the LAT. Labeled fibers also originate in the intermediate nucleus of the brachium conjunctivum. From the MGv, labeled fibers ascend to the LAT, forming a thin band close to the MGv. Labeled fibers are also present in the nucleus of the lateral lemniscus. These results show that the LSO and MGv form the major sources of projections to the LAT. On the other hand, the LSO and the MGv project to the LAT, but a more precise topographical distribution of these connections is revealed. StackOverflow Founder Offers Job
