The University of Ghana in Legon, Accra is the second oldest public university in Ghana. The University was founded in 1948 and has a student population of about 19,000. The University of Ghana, Legon Campus was established by an Act of the Legislative Assembly in 1949. The legal capacity of the University is provided for in the Universities and Colleges Act, Cap 354 (2002), which states that “subject to any special provision contained in an Ordinance, the University of Ghana is hereby authorized to admit and employ, as required by the urgency of the public interest, persons to the profession or trade or to the service in the public interest of the kingdom”. Since its establishment the University of Ghana, Legon Campus has experienced a huge growth and development that has seen it consistently provide a quality tertiary educational environment. The University occupies 5 campuses across the Kumasi metropolis, in addition the Teaching Hospital campus also has nursing schools and a polytechnic. The first building, named the Eufor University, which later became the Faculty of Arts building, was built on the third hill in Accra and has housed some of the school's activities. However, in 1975, a fire destroyed a lot of the main teaching hall. In 1979, Prof. Benjamin Kwadwo Jarrett, the Vice

National Museum of Live Animals (Gwekwe District) The Museum The museum is run by the Living Hope Church local branch of the Gukurahundi. It is housed in a new purpose-built facility on Abbey Avenue in the Gwekwe district of Midlands Province. The museum was officially opened on 9 September 2008. The Living Hope Church is dedicated to the redemption of the world and to healing the sick. The main theme of the museum is the 'Faith, Hope and Love Story'. It has present and future exhibits showcasing exhibits detailing incidents related to the Gukurahundi massacres. These include various kinds of Christian artefacts. One of the main attractions of the museum are the exhibits tracing the faith story of the Living Hope Church. These were presented in collaboration with visiting clergy and educators. Exhibits The main story related to the museum can be viewed in the first hall. Here are exhibits relating to the main faith related theme by the Living Hope Church including Stories of Hope. The life story of the Living Hope Church can be viewed in the second hallway. There are facilities to accommodate various groups simultaneously. History of the Living Hope Church The Living Hope Church is an indigenous church located in Gwekwe East District of Midlands Province. The Living Hope Church provides for the spiritual and socio-economic development of low income families in rural areas. The Living Hope Church also provides bursaries to maintain and retain students who are endowed with the church's values as presented in the churches' reading assignments. The church runs a number of institutions
