A woman with a burning, itchy eruption on the face, hands and feet was found to be sensitive to products containing calcium oxide. Patch tests confirmed a strong positive reaction to calcium oxide (which is often combined with lime or hydrated lime). We believe this to be the first reported case of calcium oxide-induced contact dermatitis. Calcium oxide should be considered a frequent source of contact sensitization in a variety of occupational and non-occupational settings.[Causes of the absence of application of a hypolipidemic drug, nicotinic acid, in neonatal hypocholesterolemia]. In two cases of neonatal hypocholesterolemia, the absence of intake of the hypolipidemic drug nicotinic acid was due to the fact that the parents did not use the drug. After the parents were informed about the necessity of administering the drug to their children, the parents stopped the drug intake in both cases.The city and county of Vancouver unveiled a new plan on Monday to find more housing for people who can't find a place to live, but critics say the city won't be able to get it right. The new plan, called the Affordable Housing Affordability Plan, proposes to deliver 15,000 units of housing for people who cannot afford market-rate apartments, as well as $20 million to build affordable units and $45 million for a new Vancouver Children's Hospital. The plan came after a review of the city's 2010 community plan, which said there was a need to "significantly" expand housing for homeless people and people struggling with poverty. "The housing need remains greater than ever in the City of Vancouver," says the 10-year plan. "The time is now." But not everyone was happy. Coun. Kerry Jang, whose ward includes Hastings-
