A: I've put your code in a running environment. There is a closing quote at the end of the tail string and a missing semicolon at the end of the grep statement. I am still not 100% confident that this is your actual problem because I don't see how newlines and empty lines could cause the trouble in your code, but they can mess with things in a running environment. The best thing to do is to use the pre-v5.9 version of grep that doesn't have a function named grep and it's buddies so they won't break things in a complicated way. For example, here's mine without the functions: `$: grep -v "^"`
Try to put your code into a running environment or at least test with a single occurrence of the code and how that it works. Here is mine without the function and semicolon: `$: tail -1 $. | grep -v "^>"`
You should use the `--version` of the variables that you are passing to grep to see what version it is. Another problem with your code is that you aren't passing the `-v` option in your grep statement. You are passing it only to the `tail -1 $.` statement. Try it without `-v` with just the first statement: `$: tail -1 $.` If that works, just add the `-v` to the original grep statement. Ask HN: Why is there an "or"? - gopherflip I am routinely frustrated by the "a" and "or" opt-in tools on my site. Why can't I control the order? ===== bob_theslob646 One thing I noticed is that I would like the "or" choice, but I only interested in one choice. So I just have to click both of them and proceed with a "Decline" button or "whatever" button. ~~~ gopherflip You're right, I just assumed I had to check off both boxes. Sorry for disrupting your flow. ~~~ bob_theslob646 No problem. It's a little weird. I think that is why I don't want to use such a tool, and I understand

Skidrow Mafia II Skidrow Fix. 1.1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates generally to the field of corn breeding. In particular, the invention relates to corn seed and plants of the variety designated CV145204, and derivatives and tissue cultures thereof. 2. Description of Related Art The goal of field crop breeding is to combine various desirable traits in a single variety/hybrid. Such desirable traits include greater yield, better stalks, better roots, resistance to insecticides, herbicides, pests, and disease, tolerance to heat and drought, reduced time to crop maturity, better agronomic quality, higher nutritional value, and uniformity in germination times, stand establishment, growth rate, maturity, and fruit size. Breeding techniques take advantage of a plant's method of pollination. There are two general methods of pollination: a plant self-pollinates if pollen from one flower is transferred to the same or another flower of the same plant. A plant cross-pollinates if pollen comes to it from a flower on a different plant. Corn plants (Zea mays L.) can be bred by both self-pollination and cross-pollination. Both types of pollination involve the corn plant 6d1f23a050
