The Parish of the Assumption is a Catholic parish in the Diocese of Auckland, New Zealand. It was founded in 1914. History The parish was founded as a parish on 16 May 1914 by the Bishop William Griffin when the Roman Catholic Church building was still being constructed in Herne Bay. The first priest assigned was Monsignor William Howells who was the assistant priest at St. Joseph's Cathedral. In April 1926, the Holy Ghost Feast was transferred from Herne Bay to the Parish of the Assumption, and from the parish of St. Mary's, Wellington, where it had been
