Slumdog Millionaire - Full Movie Download in Telugu Digital Copy - Full Movies.Q: TextBox.Text throws null when there is a value I am trying to convert the values in a ListView to strings. I then have a scenario in which I need to take the string from a TextBox.Text and then assign it to the Text property of the ListViewItem I am trying to convert. However, the Text property does not seem to accept a string. My problem is this: Upon clicking on a ListViewItem (which already has a Text property set) I want the Text property of the ListViewItem I clicked on to be updated by using a string. I thought it would be as simple as ListViewItem Isitem = (ListViewItem)ListView1.SelectedItem; string str = Isitem.Text; But str comes out as null. Which seems bizarre as the Text property of the ListViewItem is set. However, it might be that the Text property is not compatible with the string value. I can't use the normal conversion to string due to the fact that this conversion might be a one-off conversion from a ListViewItem string to a string. This would be required due to the fact that I need to extract information from multiple parts of a ListViewItem string. For example, I would need to extract the Toto of Toto and From Toto..., then I would need to change my TodoList, to use the list of strings. I am already using the.ToString() method to convert the ListViewItem string to a string. A: You're on the right path. There's a Text property, which is exactly what you need for this purpose. ListViewItem Isitem = (ListViewItem)ListView1.SelectedItem; string str = Isitem.Text; As you can read on the documentation, the Text property is an "Animation-enabled" property which returns the visual text for this item. It's all you need. You don't need to first convert it to a string and then replace it.
