An excellent thermostable laccase (potential biocatalyst for decolorization of phenolic compounds) was prepared from the white-rot basidiomycete Polyporus alveolaris, which was cultivated on a potato-dextrose-agar medium at 37 degrees C for 30 days. All of the as-prepared P. alveolaris laccase preparation showed high activities even after continuous incubation at 50 degrees C for 1.5 h, and retained about 90% of its initial activity after incubation at 80 degrees C for 2 h. The as-prepared laccase was purified from the culture broth through $(NH_4)_2SO_4$ precipitation, Sephacryl S-200 and DEAE-cellulose column chromatography. The purity of the laccase obtained by this method was higher than 95%. Molecular mass determined by SDS-PAGE was about 80 kDa. The optimal temperature of the laccase was estimated at 40 degrees C by using 2,6-dimethoxyphenol (2,6-DMP) as a substrate. The optimal pH of the enzyme was 4.5, and was less stable than laccase from Tram 6d1f23a050
