A 16-year-old girl named Rita Hayworth lives in Wisconsin and goes to high school. She leads a fairly ordinary life, going to parties, studying, etc. But Rita has a very unusual ability - she can control time without knowing how to do it. But Rita hides it from everyone, even from her friends, all because she already used this ability once to her detriment. And now she is afraid that it will happen again. But she still doesn't understand why everyone has abandoned her. And why does her father hate her? Well, in this fanfic you'll finally find out why she's so afraid of it all. I feel so sorry for these children. They are so young and so naive. They don't know anything and they don't understand. But is it their fault? No. It's their parents' fault. I think we should start with the parents. They're supposed to tell them what's right and what's wrong. Why did they do that? I can't know that. But I think they just didn't care about their kids. -Well... - I don't think it's very good that they didn't care about their children. We should try to think about our little ones. - But sometimes it's hard, right? -That's what I'm saying," he replies. How I wish I could be able to hug him, but we sit on opposite sides of the table, so I just pretend to hug him. - I also think that sometimes we have to rely on our older children. They know how to take care of our little ones and help us with everything. - I know," he says, putting his arm around my shoulders. - In a way, I care about that, too. I think I love you both. I wonder what to say to him again. I can't explain what's going on, I can't make him understand. He's not like me, and he never will be. I will always love him more, but it doesn't matter. I can accept it, I can let it go, I can deal with it. I don't know how, but I can handle it. I need time to figure it out. - Let's go," I say, getting up. - Come on, we'll get it over with.
