This is a novel about the story of a group of students who lived in the land of Tirthan (Vira, Bali) in Indonesia at the end of the 19th Century. They shared a common dream, Negeri 5 Menara, about helping the needy. Against all odds, including challenging the rainy season of the year, they developed the ability to save money and build a house for the needy, and also created a social organisation to help others with the same dream. The author is himself involved in this organisation. How do you pick up a book? Do you choose it to read and finish it? Or are you going to start reading it and keep reading until finished? Or do you start the first chapter and keep reading till the end? If the last one, this is how Mr. May (Tn Oom) begins his story about the life on five hills. He left everything behind to start a new life as a farmer in the area of five hills. Soon they start to meet people, form groups, and build a school and a clinic on the five hills. They collaborate with each other to organise the well-being of their community. Mr. May's goal in writing the novel Negeri 5 Menara is to show readers that we can overcome problems and difficulties to unite and create something that is beyond all human or logic. This is indeed a story of a dream. A story that will inspire people to act to bring about a better and greater world.
