
Master Lock Combination Using Serial Number

i have a master lock that i purchased at a store (i don't know the brand name, but its a master lock), and i have the combination memorized. it would be easy to guess it by comparing with other locks or using the counter-clockwise method, but i have no idea how to do that. i tried to take a picture of the number, but it has no numbers on it and it's not in the format of this site, which i found that would have the numbers. i've tried this method for the past three hours and am getting nowhere. i used a calculator to try to figure out the number, and it's pretty close, but the numbers are off because they're too close. i dont know where to go from here. ive tried searching around and found a lot of stuff that is not relevant. anybody have any suggestions or ideas? thanks in advance! i had a master lock combo for years and years on a safe that belonged to my mom. years ago, she misplaced the combination which i had never bothered to write down, and i never knew it. i had recently purchased a new safe and wanted to use the combo on the new safe, so i entered the 4 digit combination and the key turned. i couldn't believe it. no combination, no key, no problem. needed a new combination for a new locker, had an old lock on it, did a web search and found this site. i had a guess of 33, so i figured if it was wrong, i would find out real quick. tried it and it worked. went back and typed the whole thing in, and it came up wrong. decided to try the web page and it came up right. lucky for me, i didn't have to get up and move the lock to read the combination. i just got a master lock combo lock for my rec room. here's my problem, the combination is in the keyhole and i don't know what it is! i have never had to replace the lock before because i never needed to know it. they said it would take 2-3 weeks for them to get me a new one. i just called them and they said they have a combination that fits my lock and they will overnight it to me. i am happy with the service but i am getting the feeling i will be getting one of these locks again because they won't even send me a new combination.

after finding out my first number, i went to get the other numbers from the packaging that she tossed, and theres a 10 digit number. i figured that 10 digit might be the last digit of the combination, or not, i tried the quick new method to get the last digits and it gave me 3, 9, and 3 (but as mentioned before, 9 wasnt the right one). i tried the number generator with some numbers that she had given and i got the right results. theres a chance that she had an older lock, or a lower quality lock, but i doubt it. anyways, i have no problems generating the right combination of numbers. it's just the first one that is killing me. theres no wear, no fraying, no scratches, nothing. i've been at this for hours trying to figure it out, and i can't find anything out of place. as for the last 3 digits, i tried two algorithms, the quick new method, and the 100 tries or less method, but i can't get the first two numbers to match. i did come across a post that had some information about this, where the guy suggested that they were 10 or 12 digit combinations, and the last number was a faker. ive tried all that and it still doesn't work, the numbers are just too close. they are all within 1 digit, and the last number is all over the place. the first number is always within a couple of digits, but it varies wildly. i tried all the methods listed on this site to no avail, and it's not just me, there are people all over the internet reporting this kind of situation. i dont know if it's the lock or the combination, but i hope someone can help. im willing to pay a fortune for this answer if someone knows how to do it. 5ec8ef588b
