
Navigation System JAPAN A26 Voice

the world around us is getting more and more connected, and in many cases your car can play a part in it. this is where navigation comes in. the key for you is to understand that navigation is more than just a road map. navigation can be used to plan your next trip or to locate an item in your inventory. this might include a specific item in a warehouse, a particular area of your home, or even a specific person. navigation technology can also be used to control and program a car. when navigon one first comes up, the app will ask if you want to download the maps to your iphone or not. it will also request your location. if the map can be downloaded it will be shown on the map. if not, then you will be shown the offline map at the current location. if you need to load the maps, then you will be asked if you want to download them from the navigon website or not. you will also be asked to choose a voice to read the directions to you. the voice is the first to get the job done, however if you are not happy with it, you can choose another one in the bottom right corner of the screen. you can have several voices to choose from. they are found under the voices section. the navigon company has recently released a new navigation system for iphone 3gs. the navigon one app, being developed by navigon, will be available to download from the app store in a few days. navigon has launched a preview program to demonstrate the app and build up demand for the product. in its first phase, the app will be available to download from the app store. the navigation system was tested with a nikon d70 slr camera to record video at 30 frames per second. the system is based on wireless technology, so the signal is not affected by heavy rain or humidity.
