SimaticEkbInstall2013Rapidshare.Evidence of the inverse association between lung cancer risk and vitamin D consumption in the European Prospective Investigation into Cancer and Nutrition study. To investigate the association of total vitamin D (vitD) intake and risk of lung cancer in a large population-based case-control study, EPIC. The study included 13,047 lung cancer patients and 39,490 control participants in the main EPIC study, recruited in nine countries (Lyon, Netherlands, Italy, Germany, Spain, France, Belgium, Greece and Portugal). We evaluated the association between total vitD intake and incident lung cancer risk using multivariable logistic regression analysis (unconditional analysis). The highest quintile (Q5) of total vitD intake was compared with the lowest quintile (Q1). A total of 422 cases were diagnosed with lung cancer during follow-up. There was a significant inverse association between total vitD intake and risk of lung cancer, after adjustment for potential confounders, particularly in women (adjusted OR Q5 v. Q1: 0.72; 95% CI: 0.58, 0.90). The OR for lung cancer associated with vitD intake was higher for women than men (adjusted OR: Q5 v. Q1, 0.77; 95% CI: 0.59, 1.02 v. 0.83; 95% CI: 0.69, 0.99). These findings remained significant after further adjustment for confounders, excluding participants with a positive history of cancer at baseline (adjusted OR Q5 v. Q1, 0.64; 95% CI: 0.44, 0.93). The associations between vitD intake and incident lung cancer risk were stronger in the subgroup with a daily vitD intake 800 IU in men. These data suggest that vitD intake is inversely associated with lung cancer risk. Our findings are consistent with the hypothesis that higher levels of vitD intake may protect against lung cancer.Q: javascript vs jquery in non-IE browsers I'm currently developing a small extension for a wordpress plugin. I've done quite a lot of things with js and jquery but got the feeling that these jq functions are only working in IE.
