When I got home I came home and I put the eggs in a pan over medium-high heat. Sure enough, there was the loudest cracking noise I had ever heard. Munchkin jumped and looked around, but seemed absolutely fine. We started putting her food on the floor and she ate as if nothing had happened. I thought back to the bird feeder issue I had and remembered the fact that a few months ago I had moved it around from time to time because the platform was constantly slipping. I figured that moving the feeder around a bunch had tired Munchkin out and that is why it fell so much. I also told her she can't get any food until it's fixed because she isn't allowed to eat until she is fully recovered. Once you have the codes go back into your game and you should be greeted with a message from your parents. These codes can only be used once, but you are allowed to use them at least once before you do the ultimate act of defiance and come home for the night. If you come home and do the ultimate act, you will be blacklisted for 1 month and you will be permanently banned from using the codes.

You can do the ultimate act again after 1 month and come home late to see if you will be unsuccessful. Because of Munchkin's condition, we decided that I should do some more research on how to fix her. I did some online research and learned that the plaque that is causing Munchkin's problem, is common to all ducks, but is more severe in ducks that keep swimming on concrete. I also found out that ducks' teeth get so large because it helps them to eat the larger pieces of food that they like. So I asked her to swim on the concrete and I have not seen the same symptoms since. To add to her problem, the plumbers at the store installed some piping and cracked the concrete in the back, which is causing her more issues because it is emitting bubbles and moving the water around.

Unfortunately, she is also just old. She is 5 years old, but she has been laying duck eggs longer than she should have, and she keeps herself clean and doesn't eat more than she should. 5ec8ef588b
