KeyMacro is a CGI program that allows you to create your own interactive keyboard to use on your web pages. The KeyMacro you can access is the same KeyMacro we used in our 2DSite program. It was created to allow the user to access the same keyboard, in many languages, as the one they have available on their computer. It is very popular and we know that you will like it. Requirements: A web server with permissions that allow you to run custom CGI scripts A script folder on the same domain (i.e. not a shared cgi-bin folder) Perl, Version 5.6 or above (5.8 if you want your website to include extended characters such as Chinese, Japanese, Thai, Greek, etc.) A minimum of 20MB of disk space per website Optional MySQL Database for improved performance and scalability (requires KeyMacro) Limitations: 30 days trial 6. KeyPress Editor Description: KeyPress Editor is a new program that allows you to create your own interactive keyboard. KeyPress Editor is not a web keyboard. It allows you to easily create your own keyboard to use in your web pages and in your CGI scripts. KeyPress Editor is available in 2 formats, either the popular ASCII format (KeyMacro) or the more convenient Hex format (KeyMacroHex). Why would you use KeyPress Editor? Use the ASCII format (KeyMacro) for all languages. It is perfect for using your keyboard to enter text on your website. You can also use it in your CGI scripts. Use the Hex format (KeyMacroHex) for languages that do not exist in the ASCII format. The Hex format is the best way to allow your customers to type in your website using their own keyboards. For example, if you create a website in Italian you can create the keyboard in Italian and the customer will be able to use it without any problems. If you are selling products online, you can have the customer type in their name and then later on you will be able to add that person to your customer database. If you are selling services on your site, you can offer your customers the opportunity to be able to type in a comment or question about the services they are going to receive. This feature is easy to use 2edc1e01e8
