DFX Audio Enhancer 11.104 + keygen by Senzati Full Cracked. serial key tomb raider windows 8 crack code roxio creator nxt pro 3 keygen .Q: Change HTML attributes after X number of seconds, not before I have a bunch of divs with various attributes. I need to change the attributes in the code that generates the HTML. The elements are static and they will remain the same throughout the application. The only attribute that changes, is the div's data-object attribute. My current implementation, I am grabbing the existing attributes, setting them to null and then adding a new attribute with the desired value. This works, but there's a problem. In IE, I get cross-site scripting warnings from the browser. In Chrome, the div's attributes are not included in the document. If the change is made before the time expires, then there's no cross-site scripting issues. However, if the change is made after the time expires, then I need to add a new attribute to the div. This is my current implementation. I am using jQuery's setTimeout method. The name of the div is "div1".

$("#div1").attr("data-object", "value");
```

```
setTimeout(function(){ $("#div1").attr("data-object",
"newvalue"); $("#div1").removeAttr("data-object"); }, 10); This seems like a stupid implementation, but it has worked. Is there a better implementation? A: You need to remove the "data-object" attribute first, and then you can add your attribute. $('#div1').removeAttr('data-object'); $('#div1').attr('data-object', 'value'); jsFiddle example ; (function() { ace.require(["ace/snippets/php"], function(m) { if (typeof module == "object" && typeof exports == "object" && module) {
