While very young infants orient to animals and people as other social categories, by adulthood this reaction is much less likely, and adult humans often assume that animals are not aware of their human interlocutors. Here, I examine this striking developmental shift in human-animal relationships. Participants were either adult college students, or young children with typically developing or impaired abilities to recognise other people's minds. Adults and young children with impairment in emotion recognision had no such belief bias. Given their poor understanding of the inter-subjective mind, their attribution of human/animal difference depends on assumed psychological properties of animals, rather than of the recipients of these attributions. Republican lawmakers allege new Hillary Clinton scandal related to deleted emails. "Hundreds of pages of newly discovered documents obtained by Chairman Chaffetz's committee included communications with former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton in which she discusses an exchange of protected emails, "Chaffetz spokeswoman Kelsey Cooper said in a statement provided to FoxNews.com. The congressional committee is looking into the issue, "Chaffetz spokeswoman Kelsey Cooper said in a statement provided to FoxNews.com. The congressional committee is looking into the issue, as one of many regarding the former Democratic presidential nominee and her emails. Chaffetz was quoted in the
