I am trying to remap capslock to escape in gnome 3 and xfce by using the command setxkbmap -model pc105 -layout us -variant rightwin. But I can't work out how to find the name for the window that contains the current active title. For example, in gnome it is gnome-terminal, in xfce it is xfce4-terminal. How can I find the name of the window that I am in? A: You need to be in a shell that's able to figure out the name of the shell you're running inside. For example, if you're running gnome-terminal from the gnome-terminal binary, then it is expecting you to have ran a command that tells it to start a gnome-terminal window. It looks for the name gnome-terminal in the current shell's environment, so you should be able to find out the name by looking for that environment variable. setenv | grep "gnome-" You could use truss to see which environment variables are set when running gnome-terminal: truss gnome-terminal Then, if you need to figure out the name of the window in your gnome-terminal window, you can check its title bar's title: truss -p $(xprop -root | grep "^titlebar:" | awk '{print $2}') Q: PHP: how to use mcrypt_encrypt/mcrypt_decrypt?
